Lyceum Series to Close Season with Two of Truman's Musical Groups

The Kohlenberg Lyceum Series season will conclude with performances by two of Truman's musical groups, the University Chorus and the University Orchestra. The performances will take place at 7:30 p.m., April 29, in Baldwin Auditorium.

The University Orchestra, under the direction of Sam McClure, comprises 90 student musicians and performs regularly on campus and on tour in Missouri. It was selected to perform at the January 2006 Missouri Educator's Association Convention at Tan-Tar-A. Members of the orchestra have recently been featured in performances in Milan, Florence, Rome, Paris and Nice and toured in Vienna, Salzburg and Prague in August 2005.

The University Chorus, conducted by Mark Jennings, is a large, non-auditioned ensemble composed of students from many of the disciplines offered on campus. Works recently performed include Mozart's "Requiem," Carl Orff's "Carmina Burana" and Handel's "Messiah." Their Lyceum performance will feature master works for orchestra and chorus as well as contemporary, popular selections.

Free tickets for this performance are now available for students at the Student Activities Board (SAB) Office in the SUB Governors Room and for faculty and staff in the Center for Student Involvement (CSI), lower level of the SUB, with University ID.

Call 785.4016 for more information.

Scholar in Residence to Speak on Prodigies and the Future of the Liberal Arts

The Phi Beta Kappa Association of Northeastern Missouri will hold the 15th Annual Spring Lecture at 6 p.m., May 1, in the SUB Room 306. The speaker will be Mark Perry, who joined the Truman faculty in 2005 as a McNair Teacher/Scholar in Residence. The lecture's title is "Hackers, Violinists and Other Dime-a-Dozen Prodigies: Where the Liberal Arts Might Go in the Globalization Age."

Perry holds a bachelor's degree in music and physics from Haverford College, and a master's and doctoral degree from the University of Chicago in cultural anthropology and the history of culture, respectively. His current research interests focus on the rise of alternative culture and the growing environmentalist movement.

Admission to the Spring Lecture is free, and the event is open to the public. A reception will follow.

Boiler Shutdown

This year's annual boiler shutdown for maintenance and inspection is scheduled for May 16-26. The campus will be without steam for building heat and hot water throughout the shutdown period. It is anticipated that the boilers will be back on-line by the afternoon of May 26.

If you have any questions regarding the shutdown, or if you have schedule conflicts to address, please notify the Physical Plant Office as soon as possible at 785.4200.

Students' Paper Wins at National Conference

Truman State University students Andrew Bax, a senior psychology major from Jefferson City, Mo.; Joseph Goedde, a sophomore psychology major from Jefferson City, Mo.; and William Robinson III, a senior biology major from Chesterfield, Mo.; were named as the 2006 recipients of the Best Student Paper Submission Award by the Association for Applied Psychophysiology and Biofeedback (AAPB) at its 37th Annual Meeting, April 6-9, in Portland, Ore.

At the conference, undergraduate, masters and doctoral students competed for a $4,500 Thought Technology Infiniti data acquisition system.

training and encourage further research within clinical populations.

These students belong to Truman's Applied Psychophysiology Research Team, mentored by Fred Shaffer, professor of psychology. Their travel was generously supported by the Social Science Division.

Bax, Goedde and Robinson's paper, titled "The Cousins Relaxation Exercise (CRE) Increases Heart Rate Variability," explored the effects of using CRE as an adjunctive treatment in heart rate variability training. The results of their study support the use of the CRE as a home practice exercise to enhance the effects of heart rate variability

Index Named Best in State at Missouri College Media Association Conference

Several Truman students traveled to the Missouri College Media Association (MCMA)'s annual convention April 7-8 in St. Louis. Truman's weekly newspaper, the Index, took home top honors at the convention, including being named Best in State across all divisions and winning first place in the Best Overall Newspaper category for Division 2 schools.

The annual MCMA journalism awards are judged by the Missouri Press Association. Students from the Index were honored for their work in many areas, earning several awards.

First-place awards went to Alicia Collins, a freshman communication and English double major from Bloomington, Ill., for feature writing; and Lindsay Koski, a junior art major from Kansas City, Mo., and Conor Nicholl, a junior communication and pre-secondary education double major from Maryland Heights, Mo., for sports page. The Index also won first place in the advertising and page one design categories.

Second-place awards went to Sara DeGonia, a sophomore communication and English double major from Liberty, Mo., for feature writing; Jessie Gasch, a junior English and French double major from St. Peters, Mo., for in-depth news reporting; Lisette Metz Grulke, a sophomore pre-secondary education major from Kelley, Iowa, for news photography; Koski for feature page; and Nicholl for sports writing.

Third-place awards went to Perrin Carrell, a junior English major from West Plains, Mo., for editorial cartoon; Maureen Ferry, a May 2005 Truman alumna from St. Louis, for entertainment cartoon; Karen Schwartztrauber, a senior communication and art double major from Colfax, Iowa, for feature page and story illustration; and Chris Tharp, a junior communication major from Kirksville, for sports photography and Web page. The Index also won third-place awards in editorial writing and sweepstakes.

Honorable mentions went to Nick Corich, a freshman art and psychology double major from Kirkwood, Mo., Grulke, Koski, and Lisa Margetis, a sophomore art and communication double major from Orland Park, Ill., for photo page; DeGonia for entertainment review; Tyler Madsen, a junior exercise science major from Decatur, Ill., for sports writing; and Tharp for sports photography.

Steven Stepanek, assistant professor of communication and Index adviser, traveled to the conference with the students.

NOTABLES

Sarah Jones, a senior history and pre-secondary education double major from Belleville, Ill., has been awarded the James Madison Fellowship. This prestigious award is given to only one student per state. Jones, who will graduate in May and enter the MAE program in secondary education history, will have her graduate studies paid for and will also go to an intense four-week seminar on the Constitution this summer at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. For more information, visit <http://www.jamesmadison.com/>.

Student Media Leaders Selected for Upcoming Academic Year

The Truman Student Media Board has selected the student media leaders for the 2006-2007 academic year.

The new leaders are: Marisa Butler, a junior art and pre-elementary education double major from Parkville, Mo., KTRM executive director; Erin Clark, a junior communication and English double major from Lincoln, Ill., Detours editor in chief; Sara DeGonia,

Lyle Ingraham Scholarship Applications Available May 1

Applications for the new 2006-2007 Lyle Ingraham Scholarships will be available online beginning May 1. Current freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors at Truman are eligible to apply. According to scholarship guidelines, the maximum annual award per student is $4,000. Criteria include financial need and leadership and potential for academic success. Students must be full-time and in good academic standing to receive the scholarship.

The Lyle Ingraham Scholarship fund is designed to assist students with financial need to attain a Truman State University education. The fund was established through an estate gift of $3.44 million by Lyle Ingraham, a native of Green Castle, Mo., who passed away on July 3, 2005, at the age of 99.

To apply, please go to <https://secure.truman.edu/isupport%2Ds/scholarships.asp>. The deadline for applications is midnight, May 7. Recipients will be notified and their names will be posted on the Foundation scholarship Web site by the end of May.

SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE

The Jack J. Isgur Foundation is accepting applications from students enrolled in the field of education in the humanities, such as literature, fine arts, music, art, poetry and dance. The Foundation awards scholarships to students studying at colleges and universities who endeavor to teach courses in the above-described areas in school districts located in the state of Missouri, preferably rural school districts. The scholarship is available to those at the junior and senior levels, as well as graduate students. For further information, and an application, stop by the Truman State University Financial Aid Office at McClain

Hall 103. Deadline for submission is May 1.

The William M. Reiss Foundation is offering scholarships to graduates of publicly supported high schools located within the city limits of Belleville, Ill. Official college transcripts are required and a copy of the Student Aid Report from the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) is recommended. For further information regarding this scholarship, stop by the Financial Aid office at McClain Hall 103. Information must be received by May 1 for consideration.
