1987 Compilation: Articles 10 and 38

5.020. Admission Requirements. The President of the University sets admission requirements from year to year which reflect the challenges of the former Commissioner of Higher Education, Shaila Aery, and the Higher Order of Excellence document, for the University to be an "affordable alternative of a select public liberal arts institution that focuses on undergraduate education with high academic standards." The criteria for admission to the University during a particular year is set forth in the applicable catalog.

5.070. Academic Dishonesty. Any student involved in cheating on classwork, plagiarism, or any other form of academic dishonesty will be subject to disciplinary action.

5.070.1. Disciplinary Actions.

1. A faculty member who becomes aware of academic dishonesty may take reasonable action to reduce or eliminate the student's score for the affected test or project, lower the student's grade for the class, or suspend or expel the student from the class.
2. The faculty member may report the incident to his or her academic dean, who may suspend or expel the student from classes or programs in the academic department.
3. The academic dean may report the incident to the Dean of Student Affairs for action under the Student Conduct Code.

5.070.2. Appeals. Disciplinary action decisions of a faculty member may be appealed to the faculty member's academic dean. Decisions of an academic dean may be appealed to the Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost for review and final decision.
